

Major And Minor Notes—By John Oliver

MEETING last Wednesday, the executive of the Women's Musical Club unanimously voted on record as favoring the expansion from five to six of the annual series of Concerts sponsored by the organization. The series was initiated, and for the next years it has operated. Five concerts have been given each season. Monday, Fred M. Gee, Winnipeg pianist, accompanied with the club co-operated in bringing the artists, in a brief address delivered at the intermission.

JOHN OLIVER an intermission in the Don Cosacks concert, suggested that the time was ripe for expansion. This brought an enthusiastic response in the way of applause, which clearly demonstrated the feelings of the overflow audience. In addition, the complete selling of reserved seats prior to the opening of both this and last season's series, gave ample testimony that the time was ripe for bigger things.

As a result of Mr. Gee's suggestion, the club executive met Wednesday, and after a short discussion went on record unanimously as favoring the addition of one more concert. The rapid growth of the city, together with the interest of many Canadian musicians, as well as many from the United States, has brought a heavier demand than ever before. Mrs. Ernest Meaden, manager of the series, reported that the United States visitors have been particularly anxious to attend, many of them having been regular attendees at similar events in the cities or communities from which they came.

In view of the fact that all reserved seats were taken up when advance reservations were opened last May, it was difficult to find accommodation for many of them. This of course brings up the question of a larger auditorium, and Mr. Gee added his voice to those that have been heard already in support of such a bill. The Empire Theatre has 1,400 seats, to which can be added 75 rush seats, and it is those that can be placed on the stage.

This limits the number of patrons. However, a new auditorium, as Mr. Gee suggested, will have to wait for the happy period when the beast of Berlin, the jack of Japan and the devil of Italy, and all they stand for, are battered into submission and beaten so that their aggressive power will never again rear its ugly head in civilization.

Although the executive favors adding a sixth concert, it is not yet definite. The decision probably will be ratified by a general club meeting, and there is no doubt that Mr. Gee will concur. Should the price of the series will be increased to the extent necessary to accommodate 15, this connection it is worthy of attention that Edmonton musicians are obtaining their celebrities at a lower cost than any other city in Canada. The ticket price for a season ticket here is $7.50 for the series, $2.50 for the concert, and the next season's ticket is $10.00 for the series, $3.00 for the concert, and the next season's ticket is $12.00 for the series, $4.00 for the concert.

Mr. Gee also took a snap judgment from the audience on articles favored for next season. He mentioned a name or a type of artist and the audience responded either a show of hands or applause.

are opposed to Socialism," he said, "they can not escape the fact that while labor's status in Britain has been vastly improved, the producing more war materials than either Canada or the United States. It is true the day of labor partnership has not yet arrived in Britain, but it is rapidly approaching."

ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE

Calling for an "all-out" offensive, Mr. Buck emphasized that the time to change our system of government is after Hitler has been defeated, not before.

"Our job now is to ensure that as a result of the present war the democratic people of the world there shall be victory and better things to come."

"There can be no return to the state of affairs that existed in 1918 or 1919. The capitalists can not tell us again there is no money to fund the war."

Leading Russia's military success against the Nazis, Mr. Buck said: "Why did Hitler fail against the so-called downfallen backward peoples of the U.S.S.R. and succeed in France?"

The German press stated, with some truth, that the reason they did not take Stalingrad was that "these untrained Russians don't know when they are beaten."

The chief reason, Mr. Buck believed, was that the Soviet system had produced a higher degree of national unity than the world had ever seen.

"The fact that some of our leading statesmen are now looking to Russia with respect may be a signal for a world-wide change in our economic system after the war."

It was significant, he added, that the national day of the U.S.S.R. is celebrated by all the United Nations of the world this year.

Hill's enormous losses during the siege on Stalingrad marked the end of the "battering rams" and the great offensive in North Africa was undoubtedly the turning point of the war.

"But to be objective we must admit that we have not yet met the big test. Hitler still has the mightiest army in the world gathered on one continent under a single unified command."

CONTROLS ALL EUROPE

"In addition, he has control of 200,000,000 people in harness. We can not afford to fool ourselves. There we have all the power, money and manpower, but we know that this time we are really fighting for something worth fighting for."

"If we succeed in Europe the Axis powers, 80 per cent of the Axis power, after he has gone the communist's Russia will only be a matter of time."

Warning against the dangers of complacency in Canada, Mr. Buck argued that oceans are no longer barriers, but highways for enemy craft.

WITH three practices this week at 119 Street rink for both the Canadian and Edmonton Athletic Club programs in the City Junior Hockey League, the boys are beginning to get their ice legs and progress should be faster from now on. No. 3 "M" Depot, third member of the loop, uses the station rink for workouts.

Two busiest men in town during the last few days, however, have not the aspirins for places on the various teams, but those upon whose shoulders fall much of the work behind the scenes. Chairman of hockey for Canadian and E.A.C. organizations are Ken Henry and George Snodden respectively and although other detailing workers are assisting, much of the detail naturally gravitates to this pair.

In addition each also holds the position of manager of the juniors for club and that always entails an extra helping of grief during the early part of the season.

Right Cross Finishes Off Texas Lew

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong continued on the comeback trail here Friday night by scoring a technical knockout over former lightweight champion Lew Jenkins in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

Armstrong weighed 144; Jenkins 142½.

The former triple-crown holder cut Jenkins' eyebrow and cheek with slicing jabs and dropped the Sweetwater, Tex., fighter to the floor eight times before referee Tom Loutitt called a halt.

It was a left jab to the head and a punishing right cross to the body that finished Jenkins. The same blow had sent him to the floor three times in the seventh round for counts of nine.

But Jenkins, although outpunched from the opening round, rallied gamely at the close of the eighth. He came up from his third knockdown of the round to throw punches from all angles at the feeble Negro, former holder of the feather-light and welterweight title.

It was his last rally, and when he weakly slipped to the floor after Armstrong tagged him with the right cross in the eighth, referee Loutitt raised Armstrong's hand.

Henry Armstrong made further progress in his title campaign when he decisively out-fought Lew Jenkins in Portland last night. "Hammer" Hank scored eight knockdowns. He is scheduled to meet undefeated Ray Robinson on Jan. 29.

Believe It Or Not—

—By Robt Ripley Famous Trainer

Of Race Horses,

Bob Smith, Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—

Whispering Bob Smith, 72, who trained championship race

horses and prize fighters for half a century died Friday. He was best known for his work with the mighty Cavalro, the 1934 Kentucky Derby winner, and his job of managing Frank Eere, the former world lightweight champion.

Smith picked up Cavalro for a

"wing and High Quack" as a $3-00 bargain. This came early in the 1920s when he was hired by Mrs.

Isabel Dodge Sloan to run her stable. She had invested quite a

"chunk" in her string, paying as high as $25,000 for one horse, so he disposed of the lot. Then he shopper around, bought one trainer for $12,000, another for $100 and a third for $3,000.

With them and the rest of the string he had round "up" Bob won more than $250,000 for the Sloan estate in 1934. Cavalro, the

$1,200 buy, won the Kentucky

Derby. High Quack and Cavalro ran off to the front in the Proctor-Cavalro, himself, won

$127,150 before he was finished.

Bruce Salvage Committee

Bulletin Not Forgotten Fund Helped Gets $317 During Drive

BRUCE—Eight wartime funds, including the Not Forgotten Fund operated under the auspices of "The Edmonton Bulletin," were assisted by record-breaking shipments of salvage collected by the committee. The committee was formed last March and to date has shipped two tons of scrap and has sent to the salvage officials Navy and other salvage, including paper, rubber, glass, aluminum, paper, etc. The salvage officials have also handled five tons of bones for which farmers have been paid. The committee has also paid for most of the scrap iron collected, but the other salvage, including paper, rubber, glass, etc., has been donated.

SERVICES DONATED—Practically all the work has been done free of charge so that the total administration cost, including the loading of two cars of scrap and the trucking of seven loads to Edmonton and five loads to Holden, has been only $5.

"We are just a little proud of this record," Mr. Stambaugh declared this week.

Following is the disposition of funds obtained by the committee through salvage collected: $100,000; Victory Bonds, $100; Milk for Britain Fund, $25; Navy League of Canada, $20; Aid to Russia, $20; Queen's Canadian Fund, $20; Air Cadets' uniforms, $15; soldiers' Christmas boxes, $12; Not Forgotten Fund, $5; Total $317.

Perryvale Unit Aids War Funds

PERRYVALE—The chicken supper provided recently by the Sewing Circle was reported a financial success. Proceeds will be used for war purposes, as well as proceeds of $22 from a raffish quilt. Mrs. Fraser Gibbons, won the quilt. On the same evening $10 was collected for the Soldiers' Cigarette Fund.

The Sewing Circle has entered its second year of war work. A considerable amount of clothing has been prepared for "Bundles for Britain."

Christmas parcels have been sent overseas to former residents of Perryvale who are serving in the armed forces. Boxes are now being prepared for those on active service in Canada.

Complete Unity Vital War Need Says Tim Buck

The present war will mean total victory for one side, total defeat for the other, Tim Buck of Toronto, dominion secretary of the Communist-Labor total war committee and former leader of the Communist party in Canada, stated in an interview shortly after his arrival in Edmonton, Friday.

The consequences will be global just as the present fighting is global, he said, and that he is confident of an Allied victory.

Mr. Buck's opinion is that opening of the North African front is a preliminary blow to the invasion of Europe by the Allied forces in 1943, which will be a decisive year, and that it is necessary for Canada, the United States, and Great Britain to make sure they pack every ounce of strength into the offensive next year.

NO ILLUSIONS—There should be no illusions about the fact that Hitler has a mighty and experienced army which the United Nations have not yet met in full strength, Mr. Buck said. The North African campaign means the turning point of the Allied power to strike in a combined offensive, and an invasion of Italy from Africa.

Mr. Buck believes the government should take the responsibility of speaking to French-Canadians to let them know that the rights they cherish are what the present war is being fought to defend.

Labour and capital must co-operate on common ground because it is almost impossible to reach solutions in the middle of a war, and unless the Allies win, labour will be the greatest sufferer.

COUNCILS NEEDED—He suggested the need of labour-management production councils to step-up the war output. In the United States and Great Britain, such councils are now mandatory.

Mr. Buck arrived here by Trans-Canada Air lines from Vancouver. He will leave Sunday night for Saskatoon, Sask. He recently surrendered to federal authorities for being sought for more than two years, and was released by a federal court in Montreal.

He was greeted at the station in Edmonton by James G. Macdonald, secretary of the Edmonton branch of the total war committee, and Mrs. Florence McPherson, Miss Margaret Mills, secretary of the Edmonton council of the Canadian League for Women's Rights, Alex. Miller, Charles Springfield of Blackfoot, and others.

He will be guest of the Edmonton council of democratic rights at a banquet at the Macdonald at 7 p.m. Saturday. A provincial conference will be held at the Macdonald at 10 p.m. Sunday, when Mr. Buck will be the principal speaker. Delegates from about 30 points in the province are expected to attend.

Mr. Buck is of slight build, with blue eyes and a friendly personality. He has been a frequent Edmonton visitor, the last occasion being in 1935.

Crown Appeals Judgment on Rentals Charge

Appeal was filed Saturday by Gerald O'Connor, K.C., special representative of the Dominion Department of Justice, against the order of Mr. Justice M. Tweedie setting aside two convictions against Mrs. Vera Madill, Edmonton, on charges of infringing a rental control regulation.

Mrs. Madill was convicted by Magistrate A. L. Miller, K.C., on a charge of charging rental in excess of the maximum limit fixed for the accommodation rented, and also with unlawfully disposing or letting a tenant by making a false or misleading statement.

ERROR IS CLAIMED

In the appeal it was submitted that Mr. Justice Tweedie erred in holding that the information, complaint and conviction in both charges were valid for uncertainty, in that they disclosed more than one offence.

It was submitted also that the jurist erred in not considering whether or not a substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice had occurred, and it was contended whether or not he was satisfied that an offence of the nature described in the conviction had been committed and that the punishment might lawfully have been imposed for the offence.

Getting Around
with Jack DeLong

We have been reading and hearing much of late about that engineering marvel of this age, the Alaska Highway. The physical obstacles overcome, and the ordeal of weather withstood for many long months by troops and civilian workers alike, have been described at considerable length.

But one great enemy—and possibly the greatest enemy of all—this still has to be fought by the men constructing the great road has, scarcely been mentioned. That is the enemy of loneliness.

Last March we became acquainted with a young N.C.O. in the U.S. Corps of Engineers. He had been the first of several long trains of trucks and equipment that rolled through Edmonton.

He has written us from time to time during the summer. Of the cold of the heat or the mud and continued on Page Twenty

Mrs. Daws, who lived for 24 years in this city, was the central figure in an impressive ceremony at the Vancouver city hall, where she received the keys of the city from Mayor J. W. Cornett.

The Edmonton woman delivered a short address on behalf of mothers of those serving in Canada's armed forces on the many world battle fronts.

Mrs. Daws family is one of the best known in Edmonton, and the warrior blood flows through the veins of every member of the family. Her family is represented in each branch of Canada's fighting services, the navy, army and air force, and also in two of the fighting services of our gallant ally in the First Great War, the United States Army and the United States Navy.

A general review of the club's war activities during the last year was made by officials of the various committees. All reports showed that the substantial progress has been made, especially in raising funds for the Music-Hall program.

A report of the present T.B. and campaign was also submitted. Four new members were introduced. Working with Mr. Hanson on the executive committee for 1943 will be C. A. Venn, treasurer, and C. J. Metcal.

The board of directors consists of P. T. Beddome, R. A. Bellard, J. C. Jaeger and C. R. Knifer.

THE QUESTION
What is your opinion of local effects of the announcement by Hon. J. L. Isley in regard to reduction of food prices?

THE ANSWERS
MRS. F. C. BUTTERWORTH, Rouseville: Mr. Isley's statement will ease the situation of the consumer and his budget, but as a member of the Consumers League, I observe that this plan leaves unaltered the prices between producers and consumers.

MRS. R. L. NICHOLSON, chairman of the women's regional sub-committee: I think Mr. Isley's plan is a splendid one, and it will make a tremendous difference all across Canada due to the fact that it pertains to stable commodities. It is particularly important regarding oranges and milk, for it puts these essential foods in reach of everyone. We should be grateful for price ceiling, which keeps commodities in reach of every Canadian, whereas in Europe even essentials often cannot be bought at any price.

MRS. FRANK CONROY, chairman of the provincial women's committee: This plan is going to make quite a difference in the ordinary family budget, and will be of definite benefit to the consumer. It is evidence of the sincerity of the price board to make a good standard of living easier for the majority of the people. People complain about the "high cost of living," when perhaps they should be concerned about the "cost of living high."

Food Subsidy Vital to Price Ceiling Policy

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Bureau
OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—In the ceaseless fight against inflation, the government's decision to reduce by subsidy the price of milk, oranges, tea and coffee will emerge as being equal in importance to the imposition of the ceiling itself.

The announcement means that the campaign against inflation is becoming more far-reaching and more perilous. As it was the battle of the price ceiling, this followed, at once, the battle of the "squeezers". Now a new struggle begins—the cost of living battle—and another equally vital struggle will begin—the battle for essential production.

DUE TO PRESSURE

In its present day setting, the change in policy on Thursday was due to pressure on the price ceiling which would have been the loss of living index upwards and made an additional wage bonus payable in January, unless the pressure was relieved to relieve this pressure.

The index had been next month. The bonus, which is equal to 80 cents for each point in the index of cost of living index, and there would have been an increase of one point (two) on the price ceiling by increasing the cost of production of the line. Consumers' goods would have cost more to make; munitions and war supplies would have cost more to produce.

At some point, and probably not very far away, one of two things would have had to happen to civilian production. Either the price ceiling would have been broken, or manufacturers and producers would have gone broke.

The immediate pressure on the price ceiling came from foodstuffs and its dominant influence is shown by the rise in the cost of living index since July. Actually, July should be the best time to raise the index, but in October, when the index climbed 8.1 in October, the danger signals were flying.

EASILY CONTROLLED

To ease the pressure the government did not attack the actual price points—eggs, beef, etc.—but the government moved in an effort to ease the supply of the cost of living which were susceptible to price and efficient subsidy. Tea and coffee are imported solely by the government and payment of subsidy is no administrative problem. Milk and oranges are also handled. By reducing the prices of these foodstuffs, the government will be offset and the rise in the cost of living to the point where an additional wage bonus must be paid in January will be avoided.

The answer to the problem is that other and more nourishing foodstuffs than tea and coffee might have been chosen for subsidy ignores the problem of administration. This was a decision and other items like beef will probably be dealt with in similar fashion in due course. The cost of these subsidies will be $100,000 per year, and the subsidies now being paid under the price ceiling—largely for increased living cost—run to about $200,000 a year. The price ceiling, which is a voluntary policy, now costing the taxpayers $100,000 a year and may well rise as the pressure increases. The price ceiling, however, is a voluntary policy, and the government is allowed to pass directly to consumers, no fair division could be possible. All goods not protected by the bonus or receiving the price increases would suffer.

On the other hand, if the price ceiling was strictly retained and the ceiling maintained at all cost, the production of goods would go away because people could not produce at a loss.

MAINTAIN SUBSIDY

The important point in this policy, therefore, is that the government has shifted the emphasis from price control as such, to control of the cost of living and the obtaining of essential civilian goods. If the pressure increases, the subsidy policy will be indefinitely extended. In the absence of price control, judging by the experience in the last war and in the United States in the present war, the cost of living index in the year ending Dec. 1, 1943, the first year of the ceiling, would have risen 15 points instead of 23 points. This would mean that $350,000, which is the bonus rate, you have a conservative idea of what the country has saved in the year ending about $400,000. And this would only be the beginning of the saving since basic rates in costs of this amount would have sent all costs and prices flying upward.

Back of the immediate policy of subsidizing four food items there is the complex problem of price control in general. Obviously, the overall price ceiling will diminish in importance as the war continues. The reason is that the overall ceiling is only practicable so long as production continued at a high level. The volume of production in any plant controls the cost of the output.

The first year of the ceiling was a period of maximum production. But as war industry has peaked production, there will be shortages of materials and labor in civilian industries. War industry must come first.

Right now manufacturers of civilian goods are finding it increasingly difficult to maintain output and as they fail to do so their costs are going up. They are being created against the price ceiling. Thus the task of devising what the government will do in a new form—50¢ as a basis of

Kinsmen Nurse Attending Patient

Members of the Edmonton Kinsmen Club are busily engaged these days with their annual canvass for funds on behalf of the T.B. Seal. There are obvious reasons why the citizens of Edmonton and northern Alberta should do everything in their power to cooperate with the Kinsmen in their worthy efforts to prevent the "white scourge". In the above picture 13-year-old Norman Knapp of Bloomsbury, Alberta, is shown flanked by Dr. G. R. Davison, supervisor for northern Alberta in the fight against tuberculosis and the Kinsman nurse of Edmonton, Miss Kay Macaskill. Only through your contributions to the T.B. City Expands In Many Ways During Year

Street railway figures also show the increase in business activity in the city, there being 3,530,793 more patrons using the system's facilities during the year ending November 30, 1942, compared with the same period last year. Patronage in the last year of the year ending November 30, 1942, was 15,240,985, compared with 15,240,985 for the same period last year.

Building permits for the 1942 period amounted to $2,368,420, being slightly below the figures of last year when the permits amounted to $2,353,255. The reason for the decrease is the shortage of building materials and mechanical, and recent regulations of the building department, which practically abolished private building.

Although the building program for the 11-month period of last year is slightly below that of last year, it would be considerably in excess if permits were needed for the run-down at the Edmonton airport this summer, that has been carried out at the Edmonton airport this summer.

Tax collections, sale of city property and civil revenues collected are all substantially ahead of last year's figures.

Brokers Wager War Will End By Next June

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(CPI)—The News Chronicle reported today that the vast improvement of the Allied position in November has brought an increase in the amount of betting regarding the time of war's end, with some brokers wagering even money it will be over by next June. Lloyd's, however, has refused to set odds or accept bets.

For Russia! For Survival! For All of Us!

WENDELL WILLKIE APPEALS IN AID-TO-RUSSIA CAMPAIGN

At a great rally at Toronto on November 25th, Wendell Willkie made a fervent appeal in support of the Aid-to-Russia campaign. Some highlights of his address follow:

"The people of the world must win this war. The people of the world must win the peace. And so I come to you tonight, not to plead for help for Mr. Stalin, or help for the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. I ask you, as men and women, to give aid to the men and women of Russia.

"We are here to honor and to help a brave people who are our Allies. For however much men may disagree with Russia's political economy, all men must recognize the superb fight her people have made in defence of their homeland.

"Five million Russians have been killed, wounded, or are missing. The great fertile farm lands of southwestern Russia are largely in Nazi hands. Their products are now feeding the enemy and their men and women are forced to be his slaves. Thousands of Russia's villages have been destroyed and their people are homeless. Her transportation system is overloaded; her factories, producing to the very limit, require the full output of her remaining oil fields and coal mines.

"Food in Russia this winter will be scarce... perhaps worse than scarce. Fuel will be little known this winter in Russian homes. Even when I was in Moscow, women and children were gathering wood from 50 miles around to make a little warmth against the coming cold. Clothing, except for the army and essential war workers, is nearly gone. Many vital medical supplies just don't exist. Russian women by the millions, side by side with their children, some of them as young as 8 or 10, are manning war machines and running farms. Every able-bodied man is in the army or giving the maximum hours of hard work in war factories.

"Such is Russia today, with the bitter long winter just ahead. We can help by sending food there this winter to fill shrinking stomachs. We can help by sending medical supplies to ease pain and suffering. We can help by sending clothes to cover shivering bodies. We can show, through our giving, the warm admiration we feel for such gallant fighters. That, too, will help.

"The Russian people are turning, turning gratefully, to the democracies of the west for hope and aid. We must not fail them. For just as the African Front is Russia's front, so Sialingai and Moscow are our fronts. And the Russian people behind those fronts, who are our Allies today, must be our friends tomorrow.

"It is with them that we must work to make this war what their leader has said it: 'A great war of liberation!'

*They're Cold... They're Hungry... They're Homeless
BUT They're Not Whimpering!*

Great personal courage always has moved the world to admiration. . . Horatius at the Bridge, Thermopylae, The Jarvis Bay. And the heroic stand of the Russians through one winter, a hard-pressed summer and, now, another winter.

In Russia the women don't cringe and shrink . . . they go out to the trenches and frontiers to fight with the living and care for the dying.

In Russia the children don't whimper. They evade capture with the instinct of nature and take up the cudgels of defence alongside seasoned warriors.

That's the stuff Russians are made of. And that's the stuff that we are proud to boast that we have on our side . . . the stuff that saved the Allied cause when we weren't ready . . . that called a blessed moratorium.

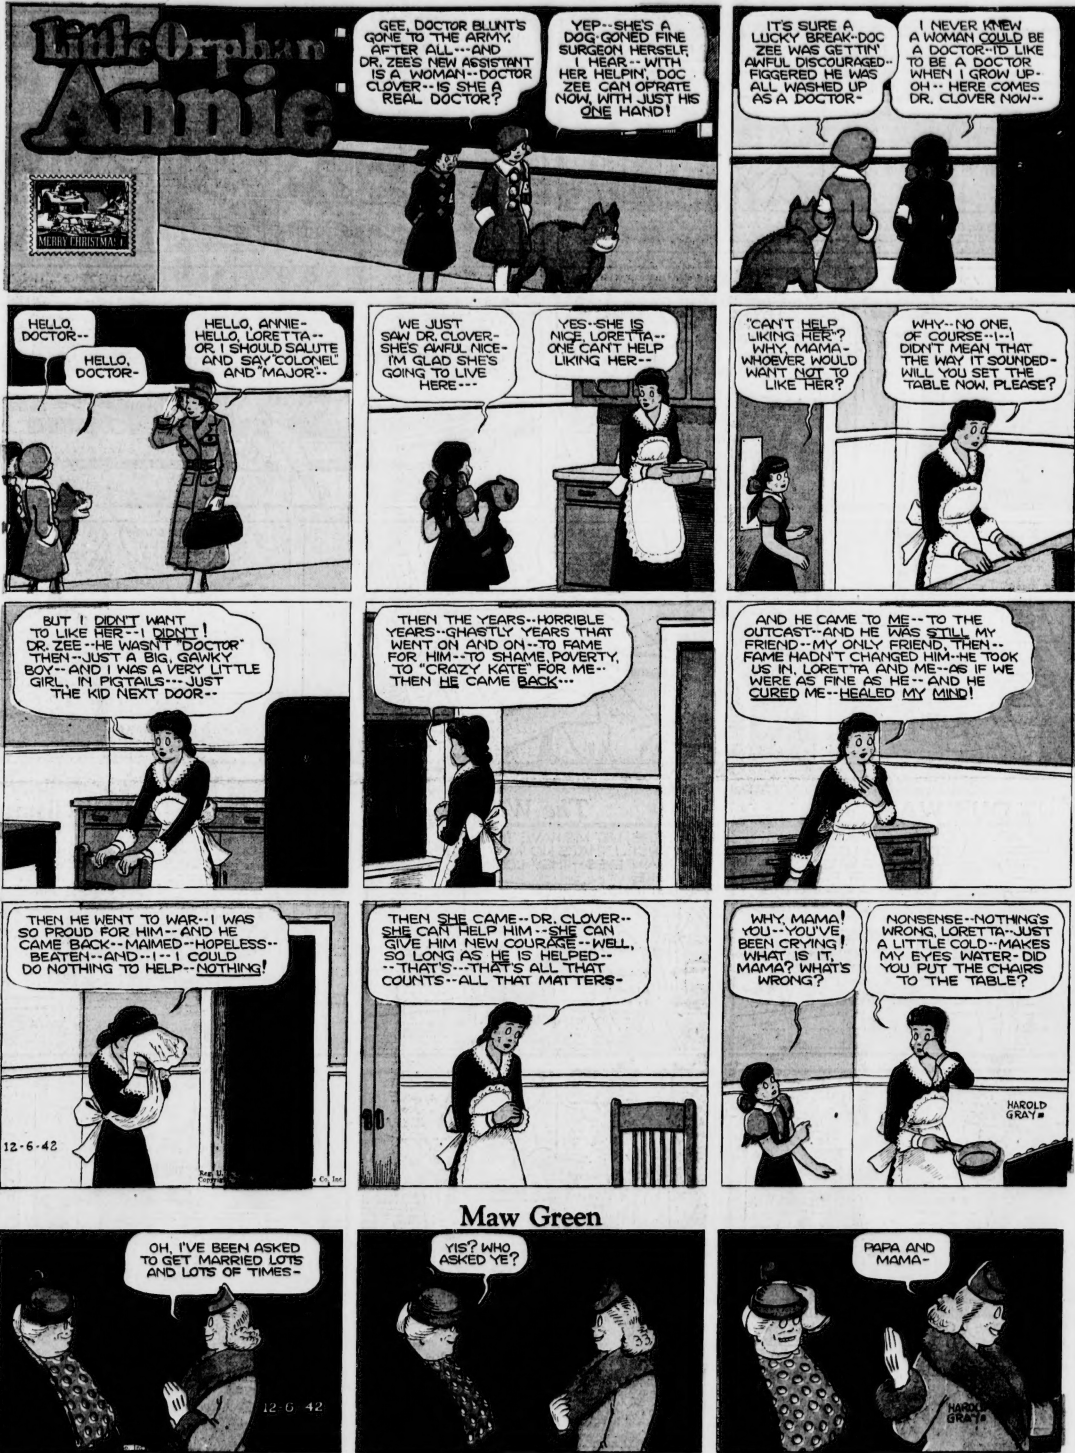

Now the tables must be turned. The Russians were ready when we needed them . . . we must be ready now that they need us. They gave their lives, their homes, their lands . . . they gave for humanity and world fellowship their peaceful rural and urban existence, the harmony of home and communal life. We are asked only for moneys that will alleviate their sufferings and destitution . . . moneys to supply hospital supplies, medicines, warm clothing, nutritious foods, roofs over their heads . . . moneys to give back to them in small measure what they sacrificed for all of us.

The Canadian Aid to Russia Fund was formed by a group of prominent business men to provide a channel through which the Canadian people, in some small measure, could express to our Russian allies our admiration, our sympathy, yes and our gratitude for the magnificent fight they are making in a common cause. The aim of the Fund is to collect donations which will be used to provide needed supplies for Russian civilians.

You can have a voice in that expression by making a donation to the Aid to Russia Fund! The size of your donation lies with yourself. But just think back a year and more ago . . . when the daily prayer was a prayer for Russia to hold. Think of the savage blows the Russians have taken . . . blows that might easily have been aimed at our friends and relatives in Britain . . . think of the price that Russia is paying in blood and sweat and tears . . . then decide what your donation will be.
